

How do I access full text journals?

To access full text journals you will need an NHS OpenAthens account. For more help with registering for an account please see Helpsheet No. 01 Creating, using and managing your NHS OpenAthens account or contact the library. All our helpsheets are available here www.knowledge-nhs.uk/faqs.

To check if you can access the full text of a journal, first click on the Library Icon on your Trust computer.

From any other computer/device go to www.knowledge-nw.nhs.uk

Click on My Resources and choose Journals in the left hand navigation menu.

On the next page, click on My Journals. Then login to your NHS OpenAthens account.

 - "You can then choose to use the Search Box and enter part or all of the journal title." (points to search box)
 - "Or you can use the A-Z to find the journal." (points to A-Z navigation)

You will see a list of journals that match your criteria with a date range of what you have access to. Clicking the blue link will take you the publisher page. You may be asked to login with your NHS OpenAthens account again. If asked for an institution please choose "NHS England".

Once you have found the article you want to access, click on PDF. This will open the full text of the article and you can then choose to either print or save it to your computer to print at a later date.

If you don't have full text access to the article, then you can request it from the library. Our document delivery service allows you to request articles not available within our electronic stock.

To use this service you will need to be a member of the library. Please complete the form on our website (top right corner) if you are not already a member, then complete the article request form www.knowledge-nw.nhs.uk/request-an-article

To access the Library and Knowledge Service support, training and other helpsheets click on the Library icon on your Trust computer or go to www.knowledge-nw.nhs.uk
